WELCOME FROM MICHAEL O'NEILL

To a national manager these non-competitive games are essential, not only do they provide the opportunity to blood new players and try new formations, but also to maintain momentum and to build on previous successes or if things have not been going so well to pick up the pieces and perhaps rebuild confidence.

The last time Israel played in Belfast was in the qualification matches for the 2014 World Cup in March 2013 when they came away after inflicting a 2-0 defeat on us. However today we are a very different proposition and I know that the players and my backroom staff are as committed as I am in maintaining our proud record here in Belfast.

We will be prepared for the game and I hope it will assist us in our future planning and preparation.

Enjoy the match and thanks for your continued support.

WELCOME FROM GARY MCALLISTER

Hello and Welcome to the '12th Man' guide for this International Challenge match against Israel.

When games against Israel come around, most of us of a certain age will immediately smile and think of the famous night in November 1981, when Gerry Armstrong scored the all-important goal which took us to the 1982 World Cup.

Our record against the Israelis is pretty decent, with only two defeats from our nine meetings to date. The last match came at the end of the 2014 World Cup qualifiers and ended in a 1:1 draw in Tel Aviv. I was fortunate enough to travel across on that occasion and really enjoyed my time there, the people were very welcoming, and it was a great experience to visit Jerusalem, Masada and the Holocaust Museum.

Whether this game is classed as a competitive one or not, any Northern Ireland fan will tell you that we treat every game exactly the same. We want to win the match and to enjoy the occasion and this game is no different from any other.

Let's continue to do what we do so well, get behind our team and cheer them to victory. It's all about the football.

Enjoy the match.#DARETODREAM
